

Statement von Linda Tellington-Jones

Last Updated Freitag, 02 November 2007

" I believe the ESSA project to preserve the horse culture of Europe is of the highest importance to the European public. The website and the educational and entertainment events act as a valuable conduit to connect the modern times with the past to teach awareness of this precious heritage. Essa centers integrate a journey into the past with the high tech of our modern times. It will take the support of individual citizens as well as governments of the EEU to actualize this remarkable project. "